

2007 SOLAR DECATHLON – CORPORATE CONTRIBUTION

LEAFHouse is a two-year interdisciplinary project, a leadership opportunity and a growth experience for students, professors, practitioners and the entire community. The LEAFHouse project culminates in September 2007 at the Solar Decathlon on the National Mall in Washington DC. Solar-powered houses from 20 universities around the world will compete for awards, based on their design excellence in form and function.

The Solar Decathlon 2007 LEAFHouse is a joint effort of the University of Maryland School of Architecture, Preservation, and Planning and the A. James Clark School of Engineering
